

ABSTRACT

A financial management system including presentation means for presenting financial information to a user wherein at least some of the financial information is represented by 5 at least one graphic, manipulation means for manipulating the at least one graphic in response to an action of a user, and modifying means for modifying the financial information based on the manipulation of the at least one graphic.